

Week 4

Looking Closely at Values

Looking Closely at Values

- Mindfulness Exercise – debrief
- Homework review – Mindfulness/ Practicing acceptance / getting unhooked / self-compassion
- Values Review
- Goal Setting
- Practice/Experiment

/

Mindfulness Exercise

Homework last week:

1. Notice towards moves
2. Notice hooks --- Name them --- Practice Unhooking
3. Practice self-compassion

Values are . . .

- Our heart's deepest desires for how we want to behave, and what we stand for in life
- How we want to treat ourselves, others, and the world around us.

When we live guided by values, we gain vitality and we experience life as rich, full, and meaningful

EVEN WHEN IT HURTS.

Values are not the same as goals

Values	Goals
To look after my physical health	To walk in the 5 K charity walk on January 8th
A direction you want to keep moving in	Something you want to get, complete, have, own, or achieve
How you want to behave deep in your heart	Once achieved, it's over and done with
An ongoing process with no end	Can be checked off the list

Clarifying our Values

- Review and Clarify Your Values – The Bull's Eye

Setting Goals Exercise

The journey of 1000 miles begins with a single step

- Setting Goals
 - SMART Goals
- Creating a Plan
 - The Willingness action Plan

Week 4 Key Messages

- Life IS hard work
- Anything meaningful brings challenges

The good news ...

The moment you start steering toward the shore, you're no longer drifting all at sea and you can make the most out of the journey along the way, knowing that you're heading in the RIGHT DIRECTION.

Homework

1. Take action toward the Willingness and Action Plan